

Discombobulation

February is still a short month despite it being a leap year. As we start the calendar year, we look to the months ahead and assess the challenges. This can be daunting and lead to a feeling of discombobulation, which is a wonderfully elaborate word meaning - "To be confused or disconcerted, confounded or bewildered".

In line with this month's theme, we have collected articles together that can help you "combobulate" your affairs and offer the first step that you can take to bring clarity to what are otherwise bewildering topics with the help of our full service law firm and the eclectic expertise of our lawyers.

Navigating the Special Educational Needs system can be complex. Our resources are designed to empower families facing these challenges. From understanding SEN to EHCP processes, school support, and local authority duties, our blog provides essential insights. Find out more.

by Madeleine Oakley

Prepare your business for this year's employment law changes. Here we provide vital insights for employers. From flexible working to harassment prevention, we guide you through reviewing procedures, updating policies, and offering staff training. Find out more.

by Samantha Randall

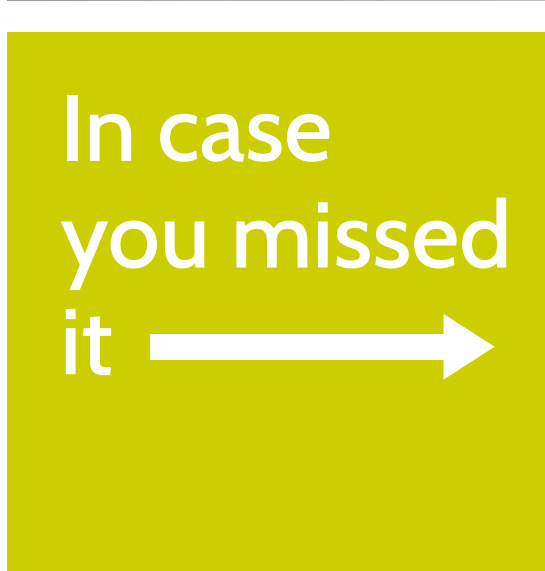

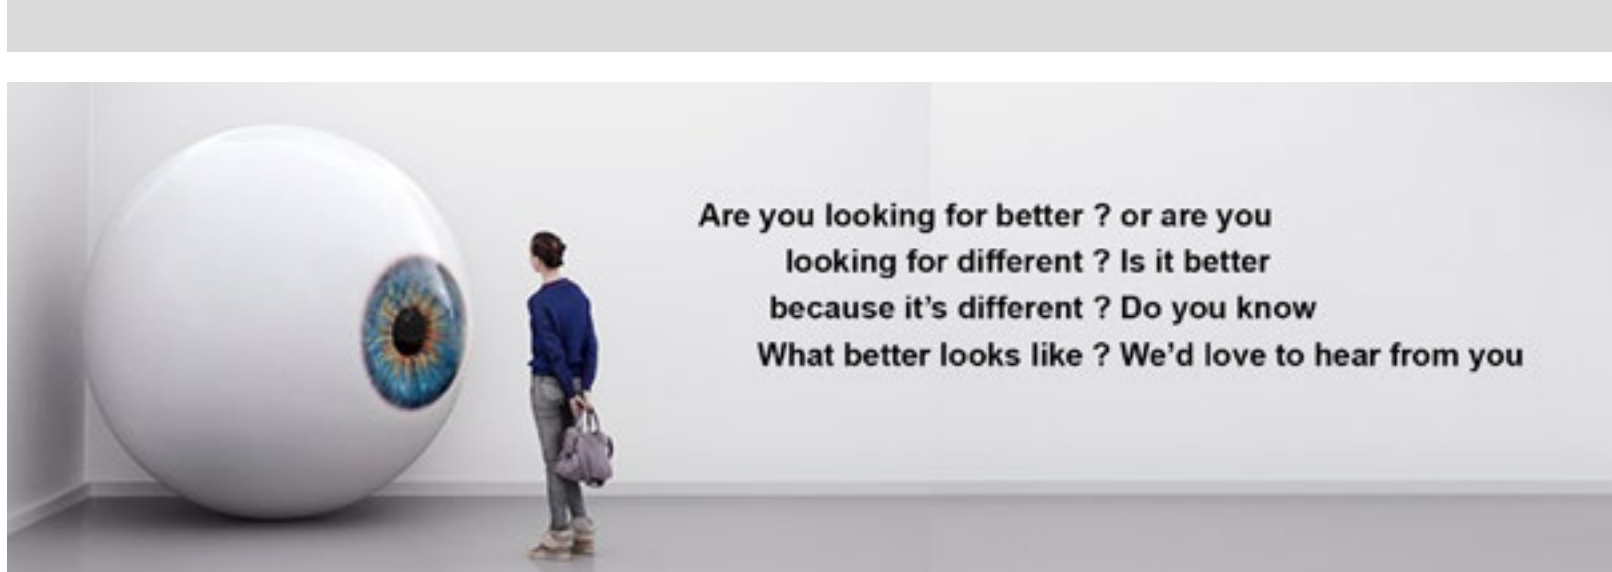

Find out more about the intricacies of boilerplate clauses in contracts. We explore the importance of these seemingly standard terms, from notice provisions to variation clauses. Understanding their impact can prevent costly oversights and disputes. Find out more.

by Lauren McCarthy

Our guide for tenants entering a commercial lease covers essential aspects like Stamp Duty Land Tax, lease termination, property alterations, selling your lease, insurance, and more. For a better understanding of commercial leasing. Find out more.

by Ellen D'Souza

- What does the future hold for flexible working?
- XL Bullies included in new dangerous dog laws
- Retirees and Family Law: later life love and pre-nups
- How schools and academies can prepare for changes to the Equality Act 2010

